In Appreciation of Our Reviewers

This issue of the Journal of Psychotherapy Practice and Research marks the completion of our seventh year of publication. We again take this opportunity to recognize the outstanding contributions of our reviewers and Editorial Board.

The reputation that the Journal has achieved in no small way reflects the impressive quality of the efforts of our reviewers. Each submission that is reviewed is critiqued by at least three reviewers. We continue to receive expressions of gratitude from authors about the thoroughness and helpfulness of our review process.

To date, the Journal has received a total of 415 manuscripts, of which 90% were sent for outside review (10% were rejected or withdrawn without peer review). Of the 415 submissions, 207 were accepted for an acceptance rate of 50%. Once again, we believe, these are admirable figures that reaffirm our belief in the vitality of the psychotherapy field.

We would be remiss if we did not acknowledge the continuing support of the staff at the American Psychiatric Press, Inc. In particular, we wish to single out our Managing and Assistant Editors, John McDuffie and Roxanne Rhodes, as well as our Editorial Assistant, Bessie Jones. For her continuing enthusiasm and wisdom, we also thank Dr. Carol Nadelson, President and Chief Executive Officer of the Press, who has guided us through the first seven years of publication. Beginning with the next issue, the Journal will be published by the American Psychiatric Association. Dr. Steven M. Mirin, the Medical Director of the APA, has been most supportive and helpful in establishing this new sponsorship.

Lastly, we thank our contributors and readers. We welcome your thoughts and ideas on how to improve the Journal and remain committed to assisting authors in publishing their clinical reports.
