Dear John

Australian Literature: An Historical Introduction

We'll be sending the galleys off for paging at the end of this week so there's still time to put in your addendum. I'm sending it to Liz Flann to edit and insert in the introduction. I'll send her a copy of your letter with your preference for a separate section to be added under 1988.

The hold-up, as you probably are aware, has been caused by the illustrations. We've now got the bulk of them with only a few remnants to be collected this week. You should expect the page proofs to be back in early January for checking and, if you will be away at that time, please let me know the dates so we can arrange our schedule around them.

With best wishes

Yours sincerely
